HOLD PRIMARIES IN CINCI. AND TOLEDO

Cincinnati, August 10.—According to political managers who profess to know, fewer votes will be cast in the primary election here today than in any previous primary held in this city. Few voters went to the polls early, and with the exception of contests for councilmen in four wards, no interest whatever was shown. There are no contests for the leading offices in the city today.

Toledo, August 10.—Voting in today's primary election to select Democratic and Republican nominees for constables, assessors, police clerk and police judge was very light this morning, not more than one or two votes having been cast in most precincts, not including the six booth officials in each booth. The primary will cost Toledo $1000.

HOLD 100 AT BAY, GET $3,000 LOOT

Maple Hill, Kansas, August 10.—Several robbers held more than one hundred citizens at bay today while companions blew open the vault of the Maple Hill State Bank and escaped with $3,000. It is believed there were seven men in the band. The first explosion aroused citizens, who, when they reached the street, were met by armed men who forced them to remain quiet until six charges of the explosive had been fired. When the vault had been rifled the band disappeared in a heavy fog which prevailed.

CARRANZA MEN MAKE HEADQUARTERS IN U. S.

Douglas, Ariz., August 10.—According to advices received today from Nogales, Arizona, complaints have been made to the United States authorities there of activity of agents of the Carranza government who are said to be making their headquarters on the American side of the international boundary line across from Nogales, Sonora. The complaints assert that the Carranza agents have been trying to stir up trouble among the forces of Gov. Jose Maytorena who are defending the Sonora town against the Carranza troops under General P. Elias Calles. As a result of the complaints, the dispatch says, the United States army officers have set a closer watch on the border line. If any demonstrations have occurred again among the populace of Hermosilla, capital of Sonora, and similar movements are said to be expected at Guaymas. Most of the suffering is in the H., August 10.—President Wilson is planning, it became known today, to confer with Secretary Redfield soon after reaching Washington and go over thoroughly all the facts connected with the Eastland disaster in Chicago in order to learn whether any federal official was in any way to blame for the loss of life resulting from the overturning of the excursion steamer. Although the president has received several communications from Mr. Redfield since the latter went to Chicago to investigate the disaster he is awaiting his return to the capital before coming to any conclusion. On the president's inquiry will depend whether he will recommend to congress any legislation for the purpose of further safeguarding the lives of passengers on steamers.

Coronado Beach, California, August 10.—That section of Sinaloa, Mexico, where it recently was reported Americans were being placed in jeopardy by Indian raiders, was termed "quiet" today, in a message received from the United States cruiser Chataanooga, which had been patrolling the coast of Mexico between Topolobampo and Los Mochis. San Francisco, August 10.—Nearly 10,000 life insurance men from all parts of the country gathered here at the opening today for a three days' convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

One thing I've always noticed about these Republican primary fights is that they always seem to have a tremendous supply of things to "throw up" each other once they get started. McELHANEY AND HARD IN SCRAP? PETE YEAGER WIELDS "HEAVY HAND"

The bitter feeling that has been engendered among the leaders of the Republican factions during the primary campaign that closed today came to the surface Monday evening, when Roy McElhaney, one of the McCormick leaders, and Charles E. Hard, prominent Kaps supporter, "clashed" at the corner of Fourth and Chillicothe streets.

Before McElhaney had a chance to carry out his alleged attempt to force Hard to apologize he was staggered by a blow in the face, delivered by Pete Yeager, another ardent Kaps supporter, and assistant service director during the Types administration.

Hard, Sam Harper and Pete Yeager were standing in front of the old opera house building at Fourth and Chillicothe streets, having just come from the Keystone Press on Fourth street.

According to Mr. Hard, while they were standing there, an automobile drove up in front of Win Nye's drug store across the street. McElhaney jumped out of the machine, and ran over to where the trio were standing. Hard's back was turned toward him when he came. McElhaney grabbed Hard by the shoulders and turned him completely around, the force of his effort knocking Hard's glasses off his nose.

Hard says that without his glasses that he was unable to recognize who it was attacking him, but he heard some one demanding an apology from him whom he afterward recognized as McElhaney.

Mr. Hard says McElhaney continued: "Unless you apologize I'll—" at the same time starting toward him.

Before he could finish his sentence, a mighty wallop was landed on McElhaney's jaw, Yeager's hand shooting forth and staggering McElhaney. He was several seconds picking himself together, according to some.

When he recovered, he walked away and joined his party of friends, who had gone into the Keystone Press, and the incident was closed.

News of the clash between two of the foremost Republican politicians in the city spread rapidly over the city, and caused great excitement in the respective camps. It is presumed that McElhaney took exception to Hard's remarks about him at Kendall's hall last Friday evening, which led him to make a warm reply in the North End last evening. It was soon after that meeting that the clash occurred.

Mr. McElhaney, in talking about his trouble with Mr. Hard, said Tuesday that he considered the attack upon him as so uncalculated for that he could not control himself when he saw Hard standing on the street Monday night. He leaped from the machine in which he was riding and rushed up to Mr. Hard, grabbed him by the shoulders and began shaking him as hard as he could. "Hard began begging like a good fellow," said McElhaney. "Roy, now Roy you quit that. Listen to me," was what Hard said, according to McElhaney. McElhaney said that Pete Yeager struck at him then and hit him a glancing blow on the shoulder while Sam Harper danced around in great excitement. In the meantime McElhaney says that he told Hard what he thought of him and then he released him and went away.

McElhaney bore no scars of conflict Tuesday and seemed to have only one regret and that was that he had not made a thorough job of licking his erstwhile campaign manager.

Mrs. Starks Plays "Fox" And Causes Her Husband's Arrest

Bob "Pardzo" Starks and his family, consisting of four little Starkses, of all hues and sizes, held the boards in the mayor's court Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Starks had caused the arrest of her hubby and a white woman, Effie Thompson, charging them with disorderly conduct. She claimed to have "foxed" Robert as he entered a private alley leading to the Thompson woman's home and under the pretense of taking some stimulants to an aged woman there whom he familiarly addressed as "Mother," instead treated Mrs. Thompson to a big "swig" of his flask, saying to her, "By golley it's good stuff, honey," to which Effie is said to have replied: "Nothing in my life ever did me so much good."

Mrs. Starks said she picked up a half brick bat and felt like killing both of them. She said she was done with Starks for good. Asked how she would subvert without him, she said: "I'll scratch with the two hands God Almighty gave me." "You've taken many a drink with me, it disappears from the house anyway," said Bob when she declared she was no "whiskey head." She produced the empty flask which she said had caused the latest upheaval in her home. The Thompson woman vigorously denied having taken any whiskey with the colored man and begged the court to curb Mrs. Starks's tongue. The Starks children were now summoned before the bench and questioned. All liked their father and mother equally well even if Bob did prompt his eldest, Jakey, in saying "Yes sir." They had just returned from an excursion to the Adam Seal bakery fairly loaded down with ice cream cones, candy suckers and other sweets and the way they swarmed about their daddy caused the court to judge that Robert was not so "worse" and let him off with a suspended fine of $10 and costs.

The Thompson woman's assurance that she had moved out of the alley since Mrs. Starks threatened to cut out her heart brought her the advice to stay out and Mrs. Starks was admonished not to take everything so seriously and peace would once more reign in her home.

Thin Men and Women

Do You Want to Get Fat and be Strong?

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods, rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You can't get fat until your digestive tract properly assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere, which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This preparation is called Sargol and much remarkable testimony is given as to its successful use in flesh building. Sargol, which comes in the form of a small non-injurious tablet, taken at meals and mixing with the digesting food, tends to prepare its fat, flesh and muscle building elements so that the blood can readily accept and carry them to the starved portions of the body. You can readily picture the transformation that additional and previously lacking flesh-making material should bring with your cheeks filling out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappearing and your taking on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid healthy flesh. Sargol is harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Fisher & Streich and other leading druggists of this vicinity have it and are authorized to refund your money if weight increase is not obtained as per the guarantee found in each large package.

NOTE—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

SORDID TALE UNFOLDED AFTER GIRL'S CHARGES

The hearing of Charles Botts, a Greek ice cream vender, who was arrested on complaint of Miss Ada Clark, a pretty American girl, who accused him of maliciously tramping her watch to pieces, showed her up in a rather unenviable light in police court Tuesday morning.

It developed from the stylishly attired girl's own admissions that she and the Greek had been lovers for the past six weeks though he is unable to talk English. She admitted, too, that he had been giving her five and six dollars weekly. She had come here from Huntington and was stopping with a married sister on Twelfth street. She said that two weeks ago she loaned her watch to him just for a minute for him to look at it and he then refused to return it. An interpreter for Botts brought out testimony that Charley had advanced the girl $15 with which to redeem the watch from a pawn shop, that she had leached as high as twenty dollars per week and all told had given her over $100, had bought for her the picture hat she was now wearing and was vainly trying to get rid of her. He also told of them living together as man and wife and caused quite an uproar when he said inconcluding "She had a sucker and didn't know it." He said ice cream vending was a profitable business, Botts one Sunday clearing $16 on his sales.

Botts was ordered to return the watch, which his interpreter said was now in a repair shop, and Miss Clark was given 24 hours time in which to leave the city.

Simple Way To Have Beautifully Wavy Hair

Lustrous, fluffy, wavy hair plays an important part in the scheme of beauty. A treated hair should not be used to give the desired wavy effect for it destroys the life, lustre and softness of the hair. It is far better to use plain liquid salicylic acid, which cures the hair more effectively, more lasting, and at the same time keeps it beautifully soft, "light and glossy." It is beneficial instead of harmful. It is such a simple thing to apply the liquid before retiring, using a clean tooth brush for the purpose and drawing this down the hair from the roots to tip. Very different from the tressure, zipper, odorless curling from rubber. Pure salicylic acid in liquid form may be found in any drug store and a few ounces will last a very long time. It is neither sticky nor greasy and leaves no sediment, spots or streaks. The hair will be quite manageable, no matter what the style of coiffure and it will stay in curl even in damp or warm, perspiring weather.

BANNON AND McELHANEY FLAY HARD AS THE CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Five hundred or more voters heard Henry T. Bannon and Roy McElhaney apply the stinging lash of criticism to Charles E. Hard at the closing rally of the McCormick campaign in the Third Ward last evening.

Their denunciation of the man who made them the chief targets of his attacks at Kendall's hall last Friday was hurled with all of the vehemence at their command, McElhaney's remarks being especially couched with intense bitterness. And then he said he would be ashamed to say what he really thought of Hard.

While referring now and then to the candidacy of Charles McCormick for mayor, they spent their greatest efforts in deriding and ridiculing Mr. Hard, whom they classed as a sore-head, and a man who aspired to be the absolute dictator of the Republican party in Portsmouth and Scioto county.

It was by far the largest meeting in point of numbers of the campaign, and at the same time, the most enthusiastic. The meeting was delayed for fully a half hour, awaiting the arrival of the Lewis Concert Band, which had spent the day at the colored picnic in Dugan's Grove, near Lucasville. The crowd started to arrive early, and spent the early portion of its time at the Gilliland meeting, a square east. The first notes of the band, however, brought them to the empty lot near Findlay street, on Twelfth, where the meeting was held.

"TIZ" GLADDENS SORE, TIRED FEET

No puffed-up, burning, tender, sweaty feet—no corns or calluses.

"TIZ" makes sore, burning, tired feet feel like velvet. Away go the aches and pains, the corns, calluses, blisters, bunions and chilblains. "TIZ" draws out the acids and poisons that pull up your feet. No matter how hard you walk, how long you dance, how far you walk, or how long you remain on your feet, "TIZ" brings restful foot comfort. "TIZ" is magical, grand, wonderful for tired, aching, swollen, smarting feet. Ah! how comfortable, how happy you feel. Your feet just tingle for joy; shoes never hurt or seem tight. Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" now from any drugstore or department store. End foot torture forever—wear smaller shoes, keep your feet fresh, sweet and happy. Just think! A whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents.

Henry T. Bannon, took enough time to answer the attack on him by Mr. Hard at Kendall's hall. He said in part:

"We are here this evening to promote the candidacy of Charles McCormick for the Republican nomination of mayor. Tomorrow the battle of ballots will be held, and I trust that the voters of the Third Ward will do their part in nominating Mr. McCormick."

He then referred to the Hard speech at Kendall's hall last Friday, which he took occasion to comment upon in the following language: Says Hard

"Sore"

"Last Friday evening, in a speech at Kendall's hall, Charles E. Hard, the leader of the Kaps forces, saw fit to attack me and others connected with the McCormick campaign. Why he did so I am unable to say. But Mr. Hard is sore at almost every Republican in Portsmouth because he did not land a big fat job at Columbus."

"For eight long years he pulled down a fat salary as Postmaster at the hands of the Republican party and at the hands of Henry T. Bannon, who secured his appointment as member of congress from this district. Now he sees fit to attack bitterly Mr. Bannon and any one else friendly to his cause. Had it not been for H. T. Bannon, Hard would not have been Postmaster of Portsmouth. Besides that, he has held other jobs at the hands of the party in years gone by."

"Charles E. Hard has little to do to attack anyone. In one hand, he appeals to the workingman to support his man, and in another, he heaps ridicule upon the heads of those who came up from the ranks of laboring men."

"If Charlie Hard would ever hear the word 'work,' he would ask for the smelling salts. He never did an honest day's work in his life."

Mr. McElhaney then referred to his own record as a member of a labor union, his position as president of that union, and his affiliation with the Central Labor Council to show his attitude toward unions and union workingmen.

"If Charlie Hard would find any sweat on his brow, he would call for his moummer. I am really ashamed to say what I think of him. He showed what he thought of the men who toil in his speech at Kendall's hall. Vote for McCormick for mayor and repudiate such men as Hard."

Says Hard Is A "Neverseater"

"I was attacked by a man for whom I have such bitter contempt that I would be ashamed to tell you what I thought of him. I repeat, Charlie Hard never did an honest day's work in his life."

"If it had not been for the Republican party, you'd had to keep him, anyhow. He would have gone to the poorhouse."

After referring briefly again to the candidacy of Charles McCormick and urging the voters to rally to his support at the polls Tuesday, Mr. McElhaney said:

"Gentlemen, it is a pleasure for me tonight to introduce to you Hon. Henry T. Bannon, who will now address you."

Mr. Bannon received a cordial reception as he arose to speak, and entered at once into an earnest and eloquent address. He said:

"Gentlemen, if there is any place that I like to come, it is the old Third Ward. I was born and raised in this ward. I know you, and you people know me. We have been together in every campaign for years. Sometimes we won, sometimes we were on the losing side, but there never was a feeling of bitterness or hatred between us. I esteem it a pride and a pleasure to be received by such a large assemblage of the voters."

"We are going to have a primary election tomorrow. I don't know whether you have heard of it or not, but we are. Tomorrow, each of you will be a sovereign unto himself. You will select the next mayor. The power of an unsworn king will be conferred upon you, and it will be up to you to choose the man who will represent you at the coming election."

"My effort in this campaign has been to select and to aid in the selection of a man who could beat Mayor Erick for mayor. I am tired of having the Democrats run Portsmouth, a Republican city. And when they thrust Erick upon us, it is the last straw."

"It reminds me of a song I heard my son singing the other night, which went as follows:

"I stood on the corner, doing no harm,
When along came a cop and took me by the arm;
He took me down, and without a trial,
I got forty days on the old rock-pile."

Scared of the Waterworks Issue

"We want a man who does not have to bear the odium of the mistakes of the party in the past. One who had no part in them. If you nominate Kaps, you will have the same old bunch who started the water works. Erick knows more about those water works than any one else in town, and we want to stay as far away from that issue as we can."

"McCormick had nothing to do with it. The administration in power fixed the first estimate of the cost at $300,000, but they came back for more, and more, until over a half million dollars was spent and now we haven't got pumps that are working satisfactorily."

"They promised us that the plant would be located above the 1884 flood stage, but right now the floor of the pumping station is thirteen inches below that line. This was due to bad measurements. They went down to the foot of Market street and measured from the non-level. They didn't take into consideration that the water works were located four miles east of that point, and that the Ohio river stage of the river falls at the rate of four inches a mile."

"Other things could be pointed out to show their gross mismanagement."

"The board of underwriters reported that after the installation of the new fire-alarm system there was not one box in the city that measured up to the standard."

"But when I pointed out those things, the old gang cried, 'You're trying to beat the Republican party. I'm not. I'm trying to beat Hard and Kaps.'"

Says Hard Made Vicious, False Attack

"This brought Mr. Bannon to the discussion of the Hard speech at Kendall hall last Friday evening, in which the speaker was the main object of attack. He paid his compliments to Mr. Hard, as follows:

"The Republicans of this city have never read a more vicious, malicious or audaciously false speech than that delivered by Charlie Hard Friday night. I say 'never read' because only one hundred and twelve people came to the largest hall in the city to hear him. Out of his own mouth he proved the miserable, pitiful littleness of his brain, a smallness of which every one knew, but few thought he would ever put on exhibition. It took years of goading to get him to show himself and we knew if we ever did get him on display his true character would exhibit itself to the Republican party and he would prove his incapacity for leadership. He is the Charlie Chaplin of local politics."

"For two hours he poured forth the pent up venom of years, a venom which he carefully guarded when he sought the Portsmouth post office at my hands, and a venom he guarded while he laid up a fortune from the office he held."

"His attitude as to Judge Osborn's candidacy is thoroughly typical of the man. He picked his own office with Kaps men, invited in five of the Judge's old friends and then took a vote as to whether the organization would support Osborn or Kaps. Of course the majority of the brethren voted for Kaps and then Charlie made them one of his Sunday school talks. Rubbing his hands together, I am afraid of a man who has that habit, he said that Osborn was his personal choice and his first choice for mayor, and that, if elected, he would make a better official than Kaps, but that he believed in real organization and would follow the crowd and support Kaps. He is the Pontius Pilate of the campaign. Finding no fault with the Judge he abandons him to his fate. Had he lived during the times of Pontius Pilate he would have joined the mob as its leader if he believed it was in the majority."

Exposes Plot of "Board of Trustees"

"He tried to set up the same deal on us. He and a few others conceived the idea of a board of trustees for the Republican party and they called a meeting at my office. They issued the invitations and when the chosen few gathered we soon sized it up as packed. We presumed that a representative gathering of Republicans would attend such a meeting, but it proved to be a gathering of office holders and those expecting office. My friends had about as much show in that crowd as a Republican in Mississippi. It was a set up job to turn the state patronage over to Hard and Eckhart. Well, the receiver-ship plan for the party was proposed and after persistent questioning it developed that those 'three tailors of London' were to select the receivers for all the Republicans of this city and then go out and tell the various candidates for mayor to take to the tall timber. They were told that they had no commission from the people to install a dictatorship over the Republican party, and the wisdom of letting the people choose their own candidate for mayor was suggested. This suggestion did not meet with a friendly reception and right there I guess I lost the friendship and admiration of Doc Young. That is all there is to that story. Charlie is venomous because he didn't pull the game off on us that he worked on Osborn's friends. Such are his methods."

Wants To Know About Letters

"His true character is best evidenced by what he said about McElhaney. He said that Scioto county offered two jokes for congress last fall, that McElhaney was the biggest and he supported him. What a confession of weakness and servility! I'll tell you how he supported McElhaney. He wrote letters all over this District saying that McElhaney was a young man of unusual ability and popularity; that he was a self-made young man and came up from the ranks of labor and would prove a credit to the District. Now, when did Charlie tell the truth, when he wrote those letters or when he made that speech? He can't help it. He is just built that way. He is so little he actually believes such methods are mainly and represent Republican principles. He isn't even straight politically with himself."

"First to thine own self be true. Then it will follow, as the night the day. Thou canst not be false to any man."

"He is not true to himself and is false with his friends."

"Then he injected the wet and dry issue into his speech. He said he and Pearl Selby were dry. But he didn't tell where John Eckhart or Kaps stood on that. If Hard will betray men he will betray principles. Neither the wets nor the dries can depend upon him and both of you had better let him and his crowd alone. Any man who will dispense political boodle on Saturday and scripture on Sunday cannot be trusted with political power."

"Next, he dug down into the political past and resurrected the political ghost of George Roberts who ran some years ago for vice mayor. On the same ticket Mr. Hutchins also ran, he said. He was afraid that I might prove a George Roberts. He forgets that Roberts was his own selection. All I have to say to that is that you can't get a single Republican who ran for county office just fall to say that I was the George Roberts of that campaign. Certainly I was not the George Roberts of the Todd-Willis primary when Willis carried the county by almost a thousand nor of the Roosevelt-Taft primary when Roosevelt carried it by something over a thousand."

"Then Charlie posed as a great friend of labor. Well, he certainly showed it. George Ditty, who was endorsed by Central Labor Council and every affiliated Union, was referred to by Hard in terms of scorn and derision and he says he hopes Ditty will never return here. McElhaney, who is an inactive member of the American Federation, he characterizes as a joke. Workmen of Portsmouth, Hard regards each and every one of you just as he does Ditty and McElhaney. He has as much use for working people as Ireland has for snakes."

Who's A Friend of Labor?

"How about the Hod Carriers' Union? Kaps talks about the way he let you colored men work. Yes, carry the hod. He never let you lay any brick. He talks about unions. Isn't Kaps the president of the Contractors' Association, an organization that is trying to break every labor union organization in the city?"

"Philo Clark never made such a mistake when he was in the saddle. He never abused the workmen. He was like that wise old owl you read about. I'll bet that when Clark read that speech of Hard's he called Charlie up into his office and said to him, 'Why didn't you listen to what I have said to you for years and keep still? Now you have spilled the beans.'"

"They say McCormick is too young to be mayor. He is 32 years old. Judge Osborn was probate judge of this county when he was 31 years old. The mayor of Chicago is 26 years old. Besides, McCormick can't be as bad as some others we have had. And he is the only man who can beat A-dam Erick."

"He promised you to appoint the best service director, the best safety director, and the best city engineer that the money can secure. No one could promise any more. Vote for McCormick, and let's have an administration of economy and efficiency."

Denies Story In The World

"Closing he drew out an old and faded copy of the New York World containing the Mulhall charges long since discredited and disproven. With malice and venom he has treasured up that old paper as his greatest possession. A complete answer to those charges is the admitted fact that I was not a member of Congress at the time the letters were written. The office had been stolen from me by Hard's associates and my only error was in using some old Congressional stationery I had on hand. The Congressional committee regarded the charges against me as so frivolous I was not even called as a witness."

"The only thing troubling Hard and his clique is that they have the office itch. They want it all for themselves."

"So narrow minded and incompetent are Hard and his few political satellites that every time they get in power in this city, the people repudiate them at the next election. Portsmouth is a strongly Republican city, yet ruled practically all the time by Democracy. The reason is that they are for themselves and not for the people. What Portsmouth Republicans need is a new deal and a square deal. They can get neither with Kaps and Hard."

West Virginia Crime And Drunkenness Shows Decrease

According to the Herald Dispatch of Huntington, W. Va., there is a fifty per cent crime reduction and seventy-five per cent decrease in arrests for drunkenness in West Virginia according to a report compiled from all cities, towns and villages by Fred O. Blue, state commissioner of prohibition. The Dispatch says:

From all sections of West Virginia Mr. Blue has been assured of the co-operation of the authorities who are working in conjunction with the state department to prevent, so far as possible, violations of the Yost law.

Mr. Blue is confident that so far prohibition has been more successful in West Virginia than any other state in the union. He regards the success as conclusive proof that the Yost law is the most efficient that has ever been enacted in this country.

Reports received by Mr. Blue show that the cities on the borderlines of the states near wet territories are feeling the least result of prohibition. Even in these cities, however, the conditions are improving.

Mr. Blue's letter in part follows: "We have received reports from 54 municipalities throughout the state, which shows the following results. Total arrests for the year ending June 30, 1914, 15,267; total arrests for the year ending June 30, 1915, 7,731. For the year ending June 30, 1914, there were arrested for drunkenness, 7,825, and for the year ending June 30, 1915, there were arrested for drunkenness, 2,772."

"You will note there is a decrease in crime in the state as shown by these reports of practically fifty per cent, and a decrease in drunkenness of practically seventy-five per cent."

"I regard this showing as wonderful for the first year of prohibition. There are many other indications of the good prohibition has done for West Virginia, but to put it in absolute concrete form is at this time impossible. With another year of prohibition we will show many other results."

"The figures I have given you are absolutely correct, and are the reports of the different mayors throughout the state."

If J. A. Bode was a believer in signs, he would have but little hope for the success of the Republican candidate for mayor for whom he voted early Tuesday morning. He considered it a good omen for his favorite in the race.

YOUTH'S LUNG BADLY MASHED IN ACCIDENT

"Tink" Swearingin, 18, nephew of Squire Swearingin, is laid up at his home near Edgerton, Ky., suffering from a mashed lung. His condition is regarded as grave by Dr. Hunt, of Edgerton, who attended the young man's injuries.

Swearingin was walking along the road leading to the Bethel Baptist church Sunday evening, when he was struck by a buggy, the shaft of which struck him in the side and bruised the entire left side of his body. The impact was of sufficient force to mash the young man's left lung, according to the physician.

The buggy was said to have been driven by John Sester, of McCov, Ky., and according to reports, the driver was laying his whip to his horse at the time of the collision.

The Markets

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, August 10.—Announcement that the western railroads are soon to receive an increase of freight rates imparted further strength to the market at today's opening. Union Pacific opened with a substantial fractional gain on an offering of 1,000 shares. This it soon increased to 1 1/4 points. St. Paul and other grangers also were higher. Canadian Pacific's response to the maintenance of the regular dividend was an overnight gain of 3 points. War specialties were again conspicuous, with new high records for General Motors, Westinghouse and Willys-Overland. United States steel touched 75 1/2, its best quotation of the current movement.

The movement was more irregular in the later dealings, war shares falling five to eight points with further gains in some of the railways. The closing was strong. Investment issues took precedence over specialties today, the favorable outlook and probable rate increases creating a broad demand for high grade railways.

Sales in the first hour approached 300,000 shares, Steel supplying the major share, with large dealings in Union Pacific, American Smelting and Crucible Steel. Prices were more than maintained in the face of continued profit taking. Steel advancing to 76 1/2 by noon. The effect of the proposed rate increase was seen in the general strength of the western railroads although trunk lines and coalers, notably Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio and Reading also rose spiritedly. Latest developments in the Mexican situation accounted for the improvement in Southern Pacific, Smelting, Mexican Petroleum and Mexican Railways second preferred. Bonds were steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, August 10.—A decline in the price of wheat resulted today from the bearish showing made by the government crop report. Favorable weather for the harvest in the northwest counted also against the bulls. Despatches indicated that even the late blue stem grades might after all escape serious damage from rust. After opening 3/8 to 1/2 lower, the market underwent a moderate additional sag.

Corn responded only a little to the downturn in wheat. There was no general pressure to sell. Opening prices which ranged from the same as last night to 3/4 down were followed by a slight hardening of values all around.

Traders on oats were guided by the action of corn. Rural offerings were not large. Provisions lacked support. Higher prices for hogs were virtually ignored.

Heavy rains in Kansas and Oklahoma causing further delay to the crop movement there led afterward to a rally. The bulls were encouraged by announcement of large exports sales yesterday and of additional foreign business today. The was firm in wheat at half to seven eighths to one-cent net advance.

Predictions of a falling off in corn receipts tended later to make the market stronger. The close was steady, 3/8 to 1/2 above last night.

LAKEIDE MAN ARRESTED ON ARSON CHARGE AFTER WOMAN SIGNS AFFIDAVIT

BULLETIN

Shoemaker waived examination Tuesday afternoon and was bound over to the grand jury under his $1000 bond.

Robert Shoemaker, well known man of Lakeside, east of New Boston, was arrested Monday evening after Mrs. Dicey Collins-Pennellton had sworn to an affidavit in which she alleged that Shoemaker set fire to the house she occupied in Lakeside last Christmas night, when four houses were burned. He pleaded not guilty, being released on $1000 bond furnished by his brother-in-law, Frank Courney, of Scitoville.

The proceedings were before Mayor Davis of New Boston.

The woman said on the night of December 25th last Shoemaker came to her house with a gallon and a half of coal oil, which he used to fire the house. "He had been after me for weeks to get out of the house so he could set it afire," she said.

"Christmas eve he moved by belongings from the house. Christmas night he dressed in an old suit of my husband's and put on a pair of my old acetates, saying he wanted to look like a tramp so nobody would recognize him.

"About midnight he came through the alley-way up to the kitchen window and threw the oil into the window, most of the oil going under an old table, says Mrs. Pennellton.

"He then threw in a match and hurried back to his house and went to bed, not even waking other men who were asleep," says Mrs. Pennellton. "He promised me $150 out of the $1300 insurance, but he only paid me $100 and bought me, several days after the fire, a new dress, pair of shoes, hat and some furniture."

Mrs. Pennellton says that Shoemaker paid back Ezra Allen the $150 he had paid on the house he was buying from Shoemaker and that Shoemaker collected the insurance.

Mayor Davis asked Sheriff Smith to notify state fire officials Tuesday, but up until a late hour Smith had failed to reach any of them. Shoemaker will be given a preliminary trial Tuesday evening.

One of Scioto county's quaint characters was called by death Monday evening, about six-thirty, when James Bailey succumbed to complications at the infirmery after a five months' illness. "Jim," as he was familiarly known, had a habit of late years in walking to Portsmouth from the infirmery and attending local theatrical engagements. His hobby was collecting theatrical literature and lithographs. He was a well-known character in Portsmouth and had a large circle of acquaintances, who will be sorry to hear of his death. He was forty-one years of age and has been an inmate of the infirmery since 1891. Only one sister survives. Funeral services will be held Wednesday, with Rev. J. B. The exhibits and attractions will excel those of former years, he claims.

COW HAD HARDWARE SHOP IN STOMACH

There is little wonder that one of the cows killed as a result of the storm that swept over the city, Sunday, was struck by lightning. The wonder is the animal escaped so long, especially as metal is supposed to be a good conductor of electricity and an especial object of attack for lightning. When the carcass of the cow was hauled to the plant of the Portsmouth Chemical company, Monday, and dissected by Surgeon Vaney Campbell and his assistant, Robert Lewis, it was found that the cow's stomach contained enough nails, tacks, etc., to stock a country hardware store. An official count showed the following articles taken from the interior of the cow's stomach: 38 nails, 23 tacks, two key rings, overall button, part of a trace chain and one pearl button. How long the above articles had been in the cow no one, of course, is able to say. The nails had not corroded, while the key ring was in good working order. Evidently this cow would have rivaled a Billy goat had it been accorded the privilege of all the dumps in the city, for any animal that would relish nails would take a special delight in devouring tin cans and cut glass. The articles taken from the cow's stomach were preserved and may be seen at the plant of the Portsmouth Chemical company.

TERMINALS

U. S. BOAT RUSHES TO VERA CRUZ

(Continued From Page One) for New York tonight to resume deliberations with Latin-American diplomats tomorrow. The secretary would not discuss the situation asserting that he had talked considerably yesterday about a confidential conference. Whether the definite plan agreed upon could be fairly worked out in one more session of the conference, Mr. Lansing would not predict. Serious anti-foreign demonstrations reported from Vera Cruz gave state and navy departments considerable concern, particularly in the Pan-American conference to be resumed in New York tomorrow to devise means for restoring peace in Mexico.

Advices from Commander McNamee led to a conference between Secretary Lansing, Rear Admiral Benson, acting secretary of the navy and Leon J. Canova, chief of the division of Mexican affairs.

The battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana, now at Newport, R. I., with the Atlantic fleet, were ordered to prepare at once to get to Vera Cruz, but if the emergency should become pressing the battleship Connecticut, now in Haitian waters, and about two days sail across the gulf would be ordered to join Commander McNamee. The Connecticut could reach Vera Cruz several days ahead of the New Hampshire and Louisiana.

Commander McNamee's report did not give details. Other developments in Mexico such as General Carranza's expulsion of the Guatemalan minister and his differences with the Brazilian minister because the countries of both participated in the Pan-American conference, are taken as evidence of Carranza's displeasure with the stand the United States has taken.

Although there are other small naval vessels in Mexican waters, the gunboat Sacramento on which Commander McNamee has his flag, is the only American naval vessel at Vera Cruz. With the arrival of the Louisiana, the flagship of the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet will be succeeded in command of the forces by Rear Admiral McLean.

GERMANS OCCUPY TOWN

(Continued From Page One) ed off the Belgian coast last fall. The fact that the German warships were forced to retire is a source of satisfaction to the British press, which finds encouragement in the resistance of the Russians in this northeast theatre in contrast to their retirement elsewhere. The British advance in the vicinity of Hoge while not comparable with the tremendous actions in Poland, marked the most important engagement in which the British army has figured since the battle of Festenberg in May. The gain was small and still has to be maintained against the almost inevitable German counter attack.

The Balkan situation is still chaotic. Dispatches from Salonique say that the Austro-German plan to strike again at Serbia, already has found expression in a concentration of Teutonic forces along the Serbian frontier. It is said 100,000 men have been massed near Orsova, Hungary, which may be the forerunner of the predicted campaign through Serbia for the relief of Turkey. Italy as yet has not declared war on Turkey, but Athens reports that Italian consuls are leaving the Ottoman empire, entrusting their affairs to their American colleagues. If this be true, it probably means that impending developments in the Balkans dictated the action of Italy.

It has been rumored frequently that Italy would send troops to assist France and England in the Gallipoli operations, but thus far such reports have not been borne out. Far Germany's reported peace overtures to Russia, the British press finds only sarcasm. Virtually all papers reiterate editorially what officials have stated so often that there can be no peace until the Allies have gained victory. It is believed generally in England that Germany is willing to conclude peace as matters stand, but the burden of all written and spoken comment is that such a situation would be impossible, from the standpoint of the Allies.

BRINGS VILLA TO TERMS

Reception today with Secretary Lansing regarding a request from Commander McNamee that a battleship squadron be sent to Vera Cruz to protect Americans and was given instructions to grant the request.

The president shortly after noon sent a code dispatch to Secretary Lansing containing instructions for Secretary Daniels in the Vera Cruz situation. While the contents of the message were carefully guarded it was understood the president's first step had been to ask for additional information. It was said here the president would take action within the next few hours. He was impressed with the word from Vera Cruz and it was expected steps would be taken to protect Americans and other foreigners in case of trouble. Soon after the receipt by the president of word regarding the Vera Cruz situation it became known that he was planning to return to Washington in the near future. He had almost given his consent to making the return trip by auto but today gave up the idea.

At the summer White House it was said the president's return to Washington was not due to any one particular question but he was convinced his presence in the capital was required by a press of official business. He now expects to be in Washington in time for a cabinet meeting Friday.

Newport, R. I., August 10.—The battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire cancelled all shore leave suddenly today, filled their bunkers and store rooms hurriedly and made every preparation to leave at a moment's notice for Mexican waters.

When orders were first received it was expected that the battleships would steam out of the harbor late this afternoon but later it was learned that their departure was to be delayed, pending further reports of conditions at Vera Cruz. Colliers were alongside both ships at noon.

tillery and after a battle of fifteen hours, the dispatch says, forced the Austrians to retreat to Gorizia, leaving 2,000 dead on the battlefield.

The Italians are said to have gained an important point strategically by joining forces between Romans and Doberdo, south of Gradisca.

The Austrians endeavored in vain to prevent this junction, losing heavily in the effort.

The bombardment of Rovereto continues.

A dispatch to the Tribune from Innsbruck, Austria, says that in the fighting along the section of the Eastern front running from the Pissa river to Ostrov, northeast of Warsaw, the Germans lost 65,000 men in killed or wounded, but succeeded in capturing the principal fortified positions of the Russians.

The engagements in the vicinity of Novogorodovsk, the dispatch says have been continuous for five days, and the Germans have occupied the northern portion of the defenses of the surrounded fortress. The Russian garrison depends mainly upon bayonet charges as artillery ammunition is lacking. North of the Lublin Chelm railroad the battle continues to the advantage of the Austrians and Germans. In the region of Novo Alexandria on the Vistula, south of Ivangorod the Russians are offering fierce resistance, inflicting heavy losses on their opponents.

THREE ARE ARRESTED FOR EXPRESS THEFTS

Chicago, August 10.—With three men under arrest here today, one of whom is said to have confessed, detectives for the Wells Fargo Express Company claim to have uncovered a system of thefts through which the company has been robbed of merchandise totalling nearly $200,000 within the last 12 years. The men under arrest are Frank Wilson, who is alleged to have disposed of the stolen goods; Benjamin Watkins, an employee of the express company, and a man known to the police only as the "Mysterious Man," who is said to have travelled under as many as 20 aliases. Watkins was employed by the United States Express Company, which was absorbed by the Wells Fargo more than a year ago. For 12 years previous to that time detectives said the United States company had been losing an average of $2,000 worth of goods a month. Watkins remained in the service when the United States company was absorbed.

Packages containing valuables would be wrapped into one large parcel by Watkins, it was charged, and addressed to the "Mysterious Man" at some suburb of Chicago, where it would be claimed by him under the alias which happened to be on the label.

Y., August 10.—The vanguard of the little army of 1200 business and professional men from the chief cities of the eastern and middle-western sections of the country who are to undergo a month's military training in a camp of instruction here had arrived today. HAS NEW SERUM TO CURE FRENCH WOUNDED

Paris, August 10.—What are described as remarkable cures of wounded French soldiers have been effected by the new Polyvalent serum discovery which was announced last March. Complete recovery is announced of men who were terribly mutilated and for whom all hope had been given up before the use of the serum, so badly infected were their wounds.

Doctors LeClainche and Vallee, the discoverers of the serum, have been unable up to the present to make more than 2,000 flasks of it daily, most of which does not reach the hospitals where the worst cases are to be found. When it can be made in sufficient quantities, to supply the fighting line where it could be used preventatively as anti-tetanus serum is a success, monthly advances will continue until June 1, 1916 when the workers will be receiving 100 per cent over today's wages.

OBITUARY

William R. Bushaw
In the prime of life William R. Bushaw, an East End druggist, was suddenly stricken by death about 1:30 Tuesday morning.

Bringing sorrow to friends and relatives and depriving the city of a highly respected and well known citizen. Coming so unexpected his death came as a decided shock to a wide circle of friends.

Only a week's illness preceded Mr. Bushaw's death which is attributed to a sudden attack of heart failure. After apparently being somewhat improved Monday evening Mr. Bushaw early Tuesday morning suffered a complete collapse and death soon followed.

He was thirty-eight years of age and at that stage of life where he was in position to enjoy his promises. Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Bushaw came to Portsmouth from Dayton, Ohio, four years ago and assumed the proprietorship of the drug store at the corner of Eleventh and Clay streets. His hard work and natural winning spirit brought him deserved success. Especially in the East End was he well known and liked and his sudden death cast sorrow over that section of the city.

Mr. Bushaw was a native of Sidney, Ohio. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bushaw, residing there survives him along with two sisters Miss Gertrude Bushaw of Sidney and Mrs. H. J. Bradley of Southbridge, Mass. The grief-stricken wife, Mrs. Mary Bushaw, surrounded by a circle of sorrowing friends is at the home, 1742 Eleventh street. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. Short funeral services will be held at the home at 7:30 o'clock this evening with Rev. J. W. Zuck of the Second Presbyterian church, in charge. The remains will be taken to Sidney, O., Wednesday morning, for interment.

Miss Gertrude Bushaw, a sister, arrived Tuesday from Sidney, and along with the bereaved wife will accompany the remains to the old home.

Baby Palmer
A nine months old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Palmer of Fullerton, died Monday afternoon about four o'clock of summer complaint. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the home. A six year old brother and the parents survive. Burial was made at Mt. Zion, Ky.

Buried At Rome
The remains of Mrs. Solomon Sibrel, the young Buena Vista woman, who died suddenly from the effects of an ulcerated tooth were taken to Rome, Adams county Monday afternoon for burial.

Mrs. Mary Kemmeter.
Mary Neudorfer Kemmeter born at Jorsch, Germany, November 17, 1850, died at her home at Manchester, Ohio, at an early hour this morning. She was brought to Cincinnati in 1855 and lived there until the last fifteen years moving to Manchester at that time. She was much interested in all charitable and progressive work. Her husband, six sons and one daughter survive.

Mrs. Agnes Miller
At 8:45 Tuesday morning (God called Mrs. Agnes Miller, wife of W. W. Miller, N. & W. machinist. She had been ill for the past nine months with stomach trouble, but only bedfast for four weeks at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Miller, 1530 Twelfth street. She was a true christian and a member of the First Baptist church of this city. She was a loving mother and her home life was ideal. Besides the bereaved husband, she leaves two children, Edith aged seven years, Howard aged 4, also her mother, one brother and sister of this city. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. McAfee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Miller. Interment at Greenlawn.

Paul James Rainey
Paul James, the seven-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Rainey, passed away Monday evening at the family residence, 725 Third street. He had been ill but a few days with cholera infantum and his sudden demise has cast a gloom over the neighborhood and among his relatives. He was a winsome little fellow and his bright smile will be missed in the home circle. Beside the parents he is survived by his sisters, Marjorie and Dorothy and Aveland and brothers Gerald and Judson, Jr. Funeral services will be held from the home Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock and the interment at Greenlawn, Rev. about me but sometimes he acts like he cares for me and at other times he seems so indifferent. Now Dolly give me some good advice as I am almost heart-broken over him. And tell me how I can win his love.

BROWN-EYED BEAUTY.

Wait until the boy tells you he loves you before you believe he is "crazy" about you. You may be mistaken about the young girl trying to take him away from you. Remember it is impossible to take that which one hasn't. Do not appear to be in love with the young man.

Dear Dolly Wise.—Will you tell me how to clean the white wood work in a bath room.

Sponge with whiting and water mixed to a smooth thin paste.

Dear Miss Wise.—Is it right for a girl who is engaged to go to public dances and dance with strange men without an introduction?

H. S.
It is never right for a girl to dance with a man to whom she has not been introduced. If she is engaged, her fiancé should exert his authority as her protector; perhaps it would be wise for him to substitute some other form of amusement for the dances.

Dear Miss Wise.—Do you know of anything which will kill the fleas on a cat, without having to bathe it in water? My cat strenuously objects to a bath.

CAT LOVER.
Purchase some flea powder at a drug store.

Dear Miss Wise.—I am a girl of twenty, and popular. I kept company with a young man nearly a year. He gave me a beautiful diamond engagement ring. Because of my parents we broke off. I have been going about with others since, but none seems like him. I wish him back, and I hear he would like to come. How will I proceed?

HAZEL.
Send him the paper containing this letter, which will explain away the difficulty, I think. If he still loves you, he will be in your parlor without loss of time.

Dear Dolly.—Is it the custom to serve light refreshments on the day at home, and would tea be acceptable?

DOT.
Though not actually obligatory it is the custom to serve light refreshments on the day at home, and tea is the accepted refreshment in place of cake and wine.

Worth Knowing
When cooking vegetables remember to put those that grow under the ground into cold water and those that grow over the ground into boiling water.

Corn Salad
Twelve large ears of corn, three green peppers, one cabbage, two tablespoonsful of salt, two of mustard, one of tumeric powder, one of flour, one cup of sugar, two quarts of vinegar. Let-boil twenty minutes and put in self-sealers.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

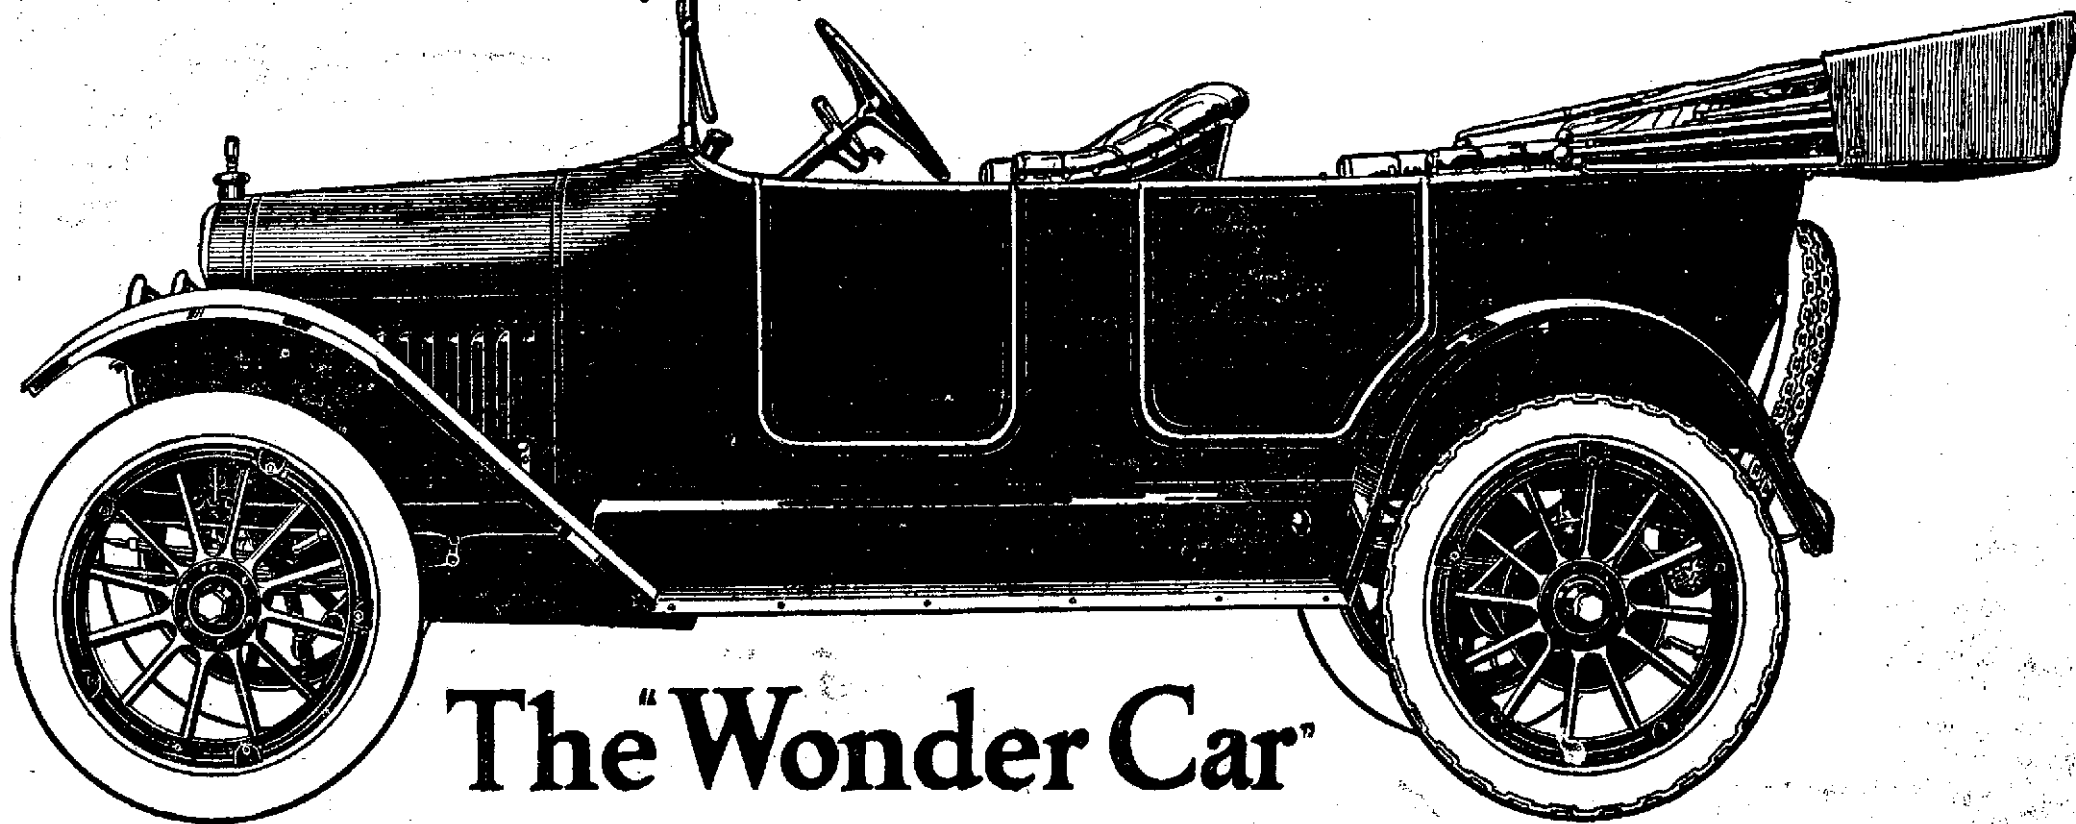

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

All Low "After-Cost" Records Broken

The "first cost" of an automobile is a big consideration to any sane man, but the "after cost" is an even bigger consideration to any man who wants to remain sane in his automobile investment.

The "after cost" or upkeep is what a car costs you to maintain, run, and enjoy, after you have bought it, and it is mighty hard to enjoy an automobile if it costs you too much to run.

The Maxwell has lowered all economy records for:

- 1st—Miles per set of tires
- 2nd—Miles per gallon of gasoline
- 3rd—Miles per quart of lubricating oil
- 4th—Lowest year-in-and-year-out repair bills

HAVE TWO PLANS FOR "POINT" FLOOD DEFENSE

At the close of the inspection made by the representatives of the board of control, city council and Retail Merchants' Association Monday afternoon City Engineer George S. Wilhelm was requested to prepare two estimates for the proposed flood defense system at the Scioto Point.

One estimate will be based on a plan of restoring the old flood wall around the Point which was washed out by the 1913 flood, save to make it more substantial than originally by anchoring it on rock bottom, and the other contemplates the purchase of the Wendelken properties on the west side of Scioto street and also the Wendelken brick store building at Second and Scioto streets and the Oakes property adjacent on the east occupied by Grocer John Swearingen and run the wall along the west curb of Scioto street diagonally across Second and Scioto streets to the site of the present Philip Hehl property and there connect with what is left of the old wall on the north side of Second street. It was argued by some that this wall would not have to be more than four feet deep below the surface but William Gergens, director of public service, felt that future floods would wash out the unprotected point and undermine the wall. He favors restoring the old wall around the point and not buying any property, the prices of which are certain to be high, for example one estimate on the Wendelken corner being placed at $10,000. He, too, believes Engineer Wilhelm's off hand estimate that to sink the wall to rock bottom would cost $118,000 is excessive. He talked of plan of converting the point into a park was abandoned.

As soon as the new estimates are prepared they will be submitted to the city council. City Engineer Wilhelm also touches upon the new bridge approach in the following communication, which will be acted upon by the above representatives together with the county commissioners and their engineer, A. T. B. Somerville:

The Board of Control, City, Honored Gentlemen:

We should at this time seriously consider what should be done at the lower end of Second street to meet the requirements occasioned by the completion of the county bridge at that point, as it has been agreed between the county commissioners and the Street Railway company to run tracks across to Union Mills. When this is done they must necessarily have connection with the present tracks on Second street. To continue this present Street Railway track west on Second street to connect with the line of traffic across the bridge, the Street Railway track must occupy the center of the street. This will necessitate the moving back of the street proper of four houses which now encroach upon the street from nineteen to twenty feet. Inasmuch as these houses have been there a number of years, it might be well for the city to move them back at its expense, in order to widen the street for the bridge approach. This will not work any undue hardship upon the property owners who have occupied city property for a number of years, but who have not acquired title by adverse possession. I think the county commissioners have some idea as to the paving of the city for street purposes. When this matter is taken up officially between the city and the county commissioners, we will then know what they wish and what they are willing to do in the matter.

We can at that time take up the drainage matter at Second and Massie streets, and do all things necessary at that point at that time, to work in conjunction one with the other. It might be well to meet in conjunction with the county commissioners or Mr. Somerville officially so that we may start the necessary work that when the bridge is completed there may be no delay on the city's part. Will you please advise at your earliest opportunity what you wish in the matter.

Very respectfully,
GEO. S. WILHELM,
City Engineer.

BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES ON FACE

Kept Getting Worse. Very Sores. Inflamed and Unsightly. Itched and Burned. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Short Time Well.

Route No. 2, Box 27, Frederic, Wis.—"About a year ago, pimples and blackheads broke out on my face and kept getting worse and worse. At first my face was covered with blackheads and in a short time small red spots appeared here and there which increased very rapidly. My face became very sore and inflamed. The eruptions were very unsightly and disfigured me badly. At times they itched and burned so I had to scratch them and after that they got still worse."

"I used two different remedies but got no good results. I wrote for a few samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and three cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. They stopped the burning at once, and in a short time I was entirely well, and all disfigurement was gone." (Signed) Ernest Faber, November 5, '14. Beauty of skin and hair promoted and maintained by daily use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

Heat a Menace to Lives of Old Folks

Sickness and Misery Are Caused By Constipation In Hot Weather

People of advancing years should be very careful of their health during the hot months. One has only to follow the mortality record of elderly people as reported in the papers, to realize that these are the hardest months of the year for them.

It is most important to the maintenance of health and vigor at this time to avoid constipation, with its accompanying headaches and muscular and blood congestion. This can be best accomplished by the timely use of a gentle laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, an ideal remedy that is pleasant to the taste, easy and natural in its action and does not gripe. Its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system.

Elderly people should avoid strong physics, cathartics, purgatives, salts and pills as these afford only temporary relief and are a shock to the entire system. In every home a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should always be on hand. It is inexpensive and can be obtained in any drug store for only fifty cents. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. Caldwell, 434 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

White Man Is Beaten And Robbed By Negro Highwayman

J. M. Smith, white, a concrete worker, was badly beaten up by a negro highwayman and robbed of all his money, amounting to $30, on the N. & W. tracks near Twelfth and Gay streets, late Monday night.

John Washington, alias "Tenderfoot," a Southern negro, was arrested soon after the hold-up occurred, it marking his third time in the custody of the local police as a robber suspect in the past fortnight. "Ollie Saunders, a Gallipolis negro, employed with Rinehart & Dennis, railroad contractors near Sciotoville, was locked up by Officer Callahan Smith Tuesday morning, as Washington's accomplice.

Police did not learn how Smith got tied up with the negroes, but residents of Gay street heard him trying to release himself from the grasp of a negro, who was holding him by the arm and leading him out the railroad. "Turn me loose!" said Smith repeatedly, but the negro refused declaring he must go up an alley. Smith continued his struggles and finally the negro began slugging him.

Saunders was identified by Mrs. Charles Stahl and Mrs. Arthur Crenshaw, Tuesday morning, as the fellow they saw running through the former's yard. Smith's empty pocket-book was also found in the Stahl yard shortly after the robbery.

According to Saunders, who denied any hand in the robbery, he had met Washington at the Twentieth Century saloon in the evening. Washington told him police had ordered him out of town and for that reason he was sticking close to the saloon until later in the night. He asked Saunders to pawn a coat for him down town, but instead of pawning it, Saunders sold it for him. Washington then told him he was going to arrange for a "skin game" later in the night. He said it was about midnight when they reached the vicinity of Twelfth and Gay streets and he himself, told Washington that he was going home. Washington had the white man by the arm and was leading him out the railroad tracks. Suddenly he saw Washington "put a knife to his neck." A pocket-knife was found near the scene of the holdup.

Washington also denied robbing Smith and claimed that he, himself, had been attacked and exhibited a cut on his face, but police believe he did this himself by pinching a pimple.

Washington was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the Cincinnati workhouse last Wednesday for alleged robbing Charles Furstman, a strange negro, of $15, in front of the Dan Fawcett home on Eleventh street, Tuesday night, but because of a loathsome disease with which he is afflicted, police officials knew he would not be accepted as a prisoner at the Cincinnati institution and ordered him out of the city. A few days before the Furstman robbery, Washington was arrested on complaint of a foreigner who reported that after he had spent considerable time treating him and other negroes to drinks, Washington had relieved him of the balance of his money, but the foreigner exoner-

VICTORS OF WARSAW ADVANCE ON ITALY

BANNON AND M'ELHANEY FLAY HARD AS THE CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Five hundred or more voters also friendly to his cause. Had it not been for H. T. Baanon, Hard would not have been Postmaster of Portsmouth. Besides that, he has held other jobs at the hands of the party in years gone by.

"Charles E. Hard has little to do to attack anyone. In one hand, he appeals to the workingman to support his man, and in another, he heaps ridicule upon the heads of those who came up from the ranks of laboring men.

"If Charlie Hard would ever hear the word 'work,' he would ask for the smelling salts. He never did an honest day's work in his life.

Mr. McElhaney then referred to his own record as a member of a labor union, his position as president of that union, and his affiliation with the Central Labor Council to show his attitude toward unions and union workingmen.

"If Charlie Hard would find any sweat on his brow, he would call for his moummer. I am really ashamed to say what I think of him. He showed what he thought of the men who toil in his speech at Kendall's hall. Vote for McCormick for mayor and repudiate such men as Hard.

Says Hard Is A 'Neverwast'

"I was attacked by a man for whom I have such bitter contempt that I would be ashamed to tell you what I thought of him, I repeat, Charlie Hard never did an honest day's work in his life.

"If it had not been for the Republican party, you'd had to keep him, anyhow. He would have gone to the poorhouse."

After referring briefly again to the candidacy of Charles McCormick and urging the voters to rally to his support at the polls Tuesday, Mr. McElhaney said:

"Gentlemen, it is a pleasure for me tonight to introduce to you Hon. Henry T. Baanon, who will now address you."

Mr. Baanon received a cordial reception as he arose to speak, and entered at once into an earnest and eloquent address. He said:

"Gentlemen, if there is any place that I like to come, it is the old Third Ward. I was born and raised in this ward. I know you, and you people know me. We have been together in every campaign for years. Sometimes we won, sometimes we were on the losing side, but there never was a feeling of bitterness or hatred between us. I esteem it a pride and a pleasure to be received by such a large assemblage of the voters.

"We are going to have a primary election tomorrow. I don't know whether you have heard of it or not, but we are. Tomorrow, each of you will be a sovereign unto himself. You will select the next mayor. The power of an uncrowned king will be conferred upon you, and it will be up to you to choose the man who will represent you at the coming election.

"My effort in this campaign has been to select and to aid in the selection of a man who could beat Mayor Erick for mayor. I am tired of having the Democrats run Portsmouth, a Republican city. And when they thrust Erick upon us, it is the last straw.

"It reminds me of a song I heard my son singing the other night, which went as follows:

"I stood on the corner, doing no harm,
When along came a cop and took me by the arm;
He took me down, and without a trial,
I got forty days on the old rock-pile.

Scared of the Waterworks Issue.

"We want a man who does not have to bear the odium of the mistakes of the party in the past. One who had no part in them. If you nominate Kaps, you will have the same old bunch who started the water works. Erick knows more about those water works than any one else in town, and we want to stay as far away from that issue as we can."

"McCormick had nothing to do with it. The administration in power fixed the first estimate of the cost at $300,000, but they came back for more, and more, until over a half million dollars was spent and now we haven't got pumps that are working satisfactorily.

"They promised us that the plant would be located above the 1824 flood stage, but right now the floor of the pumping station is thirteen inches below that line. This was due to bad measurements. They went down to the foot of Market street and measured from the sea-level. They didn't take into consideration that the water works were located four miles east of that point, and that the Ohio river stage of the river falls at the rate of four inches a mile.

"Other things could be pointed out to show their gross mismanagement.

"The board of underwriters reported that after the installation of the new fire-alarm system there was not one box in the city that measured up to the standard.

"But when I pointed out those things, the old gang cried, 'You're trying to beat the Republican party. I'm not. I'm trying to beat Hard and Kaps.'

Says Hard Made Vicious, False Attack.

Pan-Americans To Meet Tomorrow

Washington, August 10.—With a program for the pacification of Mexico agreed upon officials were ready today for the Pan-American conferences at New York tomorrow.

Secretary of State Lansing, in an announcement said that an agreement had been reached when the conference adjourned here last Friday and that a recess was taken that he might consult with President Wilson regarding it.

"I have consulted him through correspondence," the secretary added, "and we are ready to resume deliberations and to proceed with the working out of the details based upon the original agreement."

Meanwhile, there is considerable speculation here regarding the nature of the plans. Secretary Lansing, however, declined to disclose them.

A feeling of optimism prevailed in official circles today over the outlook for restoration of peace in Mexico. This was based upon the belief that a majority of the Mexican people are worn and tired of the revolution and would welcome a movement to end the strife.

ATTACK ITALIANS OUTSIDE OF GORIZIA, ARE DEFEATED

Geneva, Switzerland, August 10 (via Paris).—The appearance on the Italian front of Austrian troops from the Russian campaign is announced by the Tribune in a dispatch from Laibach, Austria. These troops to the number of 30,000, equipped with artillery and sufficient for two army corps, attacked the Italians yesterday outside of Gorizia. The Italians brought up additional artillery and after a battle of fifteen hours, the dispatch says, forced the Austrians to retreat into Gorizia, leaving 2,000 dead on the battlefield.

The Italians are said to have gained an important point strategically by joining forces between Romans and Dobordo, south of Gradisca.

The Austrians endeavored in vain to prevent this junction, losing heavily in the effort. The bombardment of Rovereto continues.

A dispatch to the Tribune from Innsbruck, Austria, says that in the fighting along the section of the Eastern front running from the Pissa river to Ostrov, northeast of Warsaw, the Germans lost 65,000 men in killed or wounded, but succeeded in capturing the principal fortified positions of the Russians.

The engagements in the vicinity of Novogeorgievsk, the dispatch says have been continuous for five days, and the Germans have occupied the northern portion of the defenses of the surrounded fortress. The Russian garrison depends mainly upon bayonet charges as artillery ammunition is lacking. North of the Lublin-Chelm railroad the battle continues to the advantage of the Austrians and Germans. In the region of Novo Alexandria on the Vistula, south of Ivangorod the Russians are offering fierce resistance, inflicting heavy losses on their opponents.

AMERICANS SAFE; INDIANS ARE QUIET

Coronado Beach, California, August 10.—That section of Sinaloa, Mexico, where it recently was reported Americans were being placed in jeopardy by Indian raiders, was termed "quiet" today, in a message received from the United States cruiser Chatterbox, which had been patrolling the coast of Mexico between Topolobampo and Los Mochis.

The message stated that members of an American colony near the zone of reported raid had refused to seek asylum aboard the Chatterbox when they were invited to do so, being of the opinion that all danger had passed.

SCOTT WILL CONFER WITH VILLA TODAY

El Paso, Texas, August 10.—In execution of his commission from the state department General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, accompanied by George C. Carothers, special agent of the state department, planned today to hold a conference with General Francisco Villa in the customs house at Juarez just across the international border.

General Scott reiterated his refusal to reveal the nature of his instructions from the state department. Last night General Scott listened to mining, corporation representatives and foreign merchants whose goods have been confiscated by the Villa government.

It is not expected the conference will be of long duration. General Villa has ordered his train routed south to Chihuahua City at three o'clock this morning but this was subject to change.

ALLIES RESUME ATTACK ON TURKS

Paris, August 10.—The Allied forces have resumed their attacks on the Turkish position at the Dardanelles with great vigor during the last two days and have made sensible progress on the Gallipoli peninsula, according to a Havas dispatch received from Athens. The Turkish losses have been heavy. Simultaneously the allied fleet bombarded the Turkish positions on the Dardanelles inflicting severe damage upon their defense works.

THREE ARE ARRESTED FOR EXPRESS THEFTS

Chicago, August 10.—With three men under arrest here today, one of whom is said to have confessed, detectives for the Wells Fargo Express Company claim to have uncovered a system of thefts through which the company has been robbed of merchandise totalling nearly $200,000 within the last 12 years.

The men under arrest are Frank Wilson, who is alleged to have disposed of the stolen goods; Benjamin Watkins, an employee of the express company, and a man known to the police only as the "Mysterious Man," who is said to have travelled under as many as 20 aliases.

Watkins was employed by the United States Express Company, which was absorbed by the Wells Fargo more than a year ago. For 12 years previous to that time detectives said the United States company had been losing an average of $2,000 worth of goods a month. Watkins remained in the service when the United States company was absorbed.

Packages containing valuables would be wrapped into one large parcel by Watkins, it was charged, and addressed to the "Mysterious Man" at some suburb of Chicago, where it would be claimed by him under the alias which happened to be on the label.

POOR SUPPORT COST PITCHER ROY HANCOCK GAME BASEBALL BANNON'S SPEECH GILLILAND'S SPEECH

Frankfort Gets Breaks And Won Three to One, Lack of Pepper Shown

(BY F. W. SHERIDAN)

Admired and abetted by several playmates on the part of the locals, that tribe of ball tossers hailing from Frankfort, Kentucky, sauntered to fame and fortune as the "Old Taylors," walked off the field at Millbrook park, Monday afternoon, with a 3 to 1 victory, dangle to their belts—a victory to which they had no more right than the bare-footed dirty faced urchin who swipes a bag of peanuts from a stand alongside a lot of over-ripe bananas.

Errors, however, are a part of the game and they make the National pastime so uncertain as to insure its popularity. But the hellfire is that the locals made "em all—made 'em, when they hurt like the mischief and killed for Roy Hancock, the chances of as clean a shut out as ever fell to the lot of mortal man. Hancock pitched one of the most careful of games, holding the opposition to six blows, but the jinx is still following the intelligent fellow, it seems, and he simply had to do his best and see his team mates chuck the game into the sewer of defeat and despair.

Mr. Kirkendall, who rolled out would make a fine hole look like a switch from a gooseberry bush, twirled for Frankfort, and got by in elegant shape all because his backers gave him credit support and because of his ability to stick that old pill just where he wanted to. He didn't have any more curves than a string bean, and to save his life could not hit a ball, but he kept the locals popping his offenses in the air, fifteen of them going out on pop-fies that resembled so many strung fair balloons on the end of a fish-line.

He was a complete mystery so far as being solved is concerned except on rare occasions, allowing but half a dozen blows, two of which came in the ninth inning, when Stewart Dills, the home-state Rosebud, gave the fans enough to hope for victory. Dills led off with a double, followed by right and came home a second later when Sherman cut one through the infield. And there, however, ended right then and there, for the wicked smashes of Caton and McElhenny went right at the catcher and the shift was off for keeps.

The Old Taylors arrived at the game late. In fact the contest did not start until four o'clock. The visitors arrived in the city over the C. & O. at 2:25, jumped into a jitney, bundled aboard a street car and were whisked to the park. With their faces covered with sweat they hustled into their uniforms and went into the game without the usual warming up process. All things being equal it looked as though the Spencerites had a pine, for they had been at the park for a couple of hours and were supposed to be in proper altitude. Everything went as merry as a wedding feast until the fourth frame, when four errors in a row gave the locals the lead. The hands of the hungry horde from our sister state, Hancock was pitching steadily and artistically and looked to have the measure of the visitors. Kaiser started this inning with a strike out. Jones, der manager, who is considered one of the old world horses of baseball, pulled an ordinance in a Caton, who fumbled long enough to allow Jones to reach first. Williams shot one that went through Dillmore like a hot iron in the dark. It is true the ball was viciously hit, but was hopping fairly nicely, thank you. Dillie, however, in safety first held out his honest hands to intercept the drive if possible. The ball missed connections and carried on in left. McElhenny, of Blue Grass league fame, poked an easy soft buster to Caton, who in his eagerness to start a double play, kicked the ball around a la ping-pong. This filled the bases when the ball should have been retired. Mueller sent a long foul to left, which McElhenny devalued. Jones hurried home after the catch. Turner rolled to bush, who stopped to answer a well, who tossed after to second, again jamming the bases. Then Monroe, pitcher, who was sucking at first, hit a roller directly through short that went for a hit, two more runs resulting. Kirkendall, a wise chap, they say, knew that his team had enough and he ended the agony with a puny rally to Hancock. Analyze that inning friends, and you will see in a jiffy that the fourth stanza was pitiful indeed to the spectators, several of whom allowed their tongues to do a little wagging.

Outside of this inning not a visitor got near the plate, due in a large measure to the clever handling of Hancock, who worked like a Trojan to answer a well, a little like a "nerf" will help, but it's on the free list and one of the most necessary adjuncts in a ball game. Incidentally, it would not be a bad idea for the fans to exercise a little more patience. No player is purposefully musing up a play. They all make errors once in while and probably the very boys that were guilty yesterday will go out there today and make you forget their foibles of yesterday. Come out and root—root, we say, root. while Kaiser was sent to left. Monroe is said to be one of the best hurlers in minor league circles. He played a rather awkward game at first base, but at that got everything that came his way and cracked out a couple of hits. Some of these days he is going to fall down and he'll crack like a China doll on a cement sidewalk.

Turner, who donned the wind pad for the visitors, caught a pretty game and showed he was the possessor of a splendid whip. At that he allowed two stolen bases, although one of his chucks was a palpable mull.

Some of the fans were riding Cateher Johnson of the locals yesterday because they thought he was not showing the proper spirit. Two foul flies were allowed to drop near the stand, which the fans endeavored to throw at him. The fact of the matter is that Johnson should not be playing at all. One of his legs is in very bad shape and if some of the fans who tried to bay him out had fastened to their trunk, they would be snubbing around with the aid of crutches and making frequent trips to a physician. Johnson is one of the most willing workers on a team and the last man on earth to stir a duty.

The game was reeled off in one hour and twenty-eight minutes. This was made possible because the pitchers both had control and wasted but little time in giving the batters something to swing at. At that Kirkendall did not fan a man, while Hancock whiffed a pair.

Notes Of The Game

Frankfort will again be the attraction at Millbrook Park Thursday afternoon. Larry Jackson will lead the locals and is confident he will turn in a winner. The locals have been giving Larry plenty of runs, and while the willing worker does not need so many, nevertheless the more runs the easier the going. Frankfort will also play on Wednesday and Thursday. It's Ferguson's time to hit Wednesday, and then Hubert Test will bob up in the box Thursday.

A more willing worker never lived than Pitcher Roy Hancock. He is out there fighting at all times and generally holding his opponents in a few hits. And yet a jinx seems to be following him. It makes little difference how hard the locals try, they generally miss all along the way. But the intelligent hurler never quits trying. Some of these days he will be given a good support and when that happens it's a sure bet that the opposition will know what it is to be humbled. Hancock should be put down as the hard luck pitcher of the league. Yesterday he should have scored a shut out, but fate decreed otherwise and his good work on the mound counted for little. Hancock is a credit to the game, a clean cut, intelligent gentleman, whose heart is in his work and who would pitch every other day if he thought he could help out the team by so doing.

Kirkendall hadn't a single solitary thing yesterday but control. And after all, that is much more necessary than curves, especially when they are uncontrolled. Kirkendall sent the ball up to the plate as high as a balloon, but the locals spent most of their efforts in popping the ball in the air. Dills and Sherman secured two hits each, while Dillmore and Caton batted one each. The locals are completely off their feet so far as hitting is concerned. Some of these days, the Spencerites will get together and maul seven kinds of languages out of the opposition. Once started they will be hard to stop. Incidentally, the locals are not displaying the proper brand of prepared and not playing up to their usual standard. Put together, boys, faint heart never won a pennant.

Manager Jones, of the Old Taylors has assembled quite a ball team. The old heads are conspicuous by their absence. Bohannon, Dawson, et al, have gone to the discard. Manager Jones is still able to earn his salary because of his ability. He is a hard buster, so they say. On the field he is continually after his men, but as soon as the contest comes to a close is one of the best, all bitterness having been forgotten. To play for Jones a man has to work at top speed during the telling hours. The Frankfort team is not the jinx it was at the start of the season when a bunch of old heads were out for a job ride. The team now looks mighty good and will give any aggregation a fight. The pitchers are in great shape and Manager Jones predicted last night that his boys would walk out of Millbrook with at least three out of four. It's up to the locals to show him that as a prophet he belongs to the never-was class.

Empire Kane stated last evening that Kirkendall was out there with a glove and a prayer. "But," said the veteran arbiter, "the last contest—well, that is all it takes. He's got nothing but a ball across the corners and as a result the Portsmouth batters popped weekly into the air. Hancock had three times as much stuff as Kirkendall," said Mr. Kane, "but loose playing spoiled his efforts."

The scoring machine of the locals seems to be sadly out of gear. In the last three games they have scored exactly two runs. This, of course, means that the club will get no higher if this policy be pursued. However, there is no question but from now on the locals will utilize their arms and legs after the opposition hammer and tongs.

Monroe, who played first base for the visitors, is the tallest man in captivity. He towers high above Major Hart and faces him to seven feet of perpendicular feet. He is a pitcher by profession, but was used on first base.

BALL PLAYERS IN THE CITY

Doc Abbott, former outfielder for Newark in the Ohio State League, is visiting at the home of George Jones at Ninth and Newark streets. Scotty Winters, former New York catcher, now at N. & W. railroad, is also spending a few days in this city, and he and Abbott are reviving old memories as former teammates.

REDS WON IN 12 INNINGS

Cincinnati, August 10.—In a hard fight which lasted twelve innings, Cincinnati won from Philadelphia Monday 5 to 4. The visitors took an early lead, setting on two runs in first on a base on balls, three singles. They scored for another in the third on a sacrifice error, an error by Dais was responsible for another in the sixth. The locals found Demaree's weak spot in the sixth inning, scoring two runs off a double, an error and four singles. They forced Demaree's retirement in the seventh before anyone was out and tied the score on two singles and a sacrifice.

STORM CAUSE OF $250,000 OIL LOSS

Tulsa, Okla., August 10.—A severe electrical storm today caused a loss of more than $250,000 in the oil fields near Tulsa. The sky was illuminated for miles by burning oil tanks. The Gulf Pipe Line company lost two 55,000 barrel tanks and two 1,600 barrel tanks. Many other losses were reported by various oil companies.

which the speaker was the main object of attack. He paid his compliments to Mr. Hard, as follows:

"The Republicans of this city have never read a more vicious, malicious or audaciously false speech than that delivered by Charlie Hard Friday night. I say 'never read' because only one hundred and twelve people came to the largest hall in the city to hear him. Out of his own mouth he proved the miserable, pitiful littleness of his brain; a smallness of which every one knew, but few thought he would ever put on exhibition. It took years of goading to get him to show himself and we knew if we ever did get him on display his true character would exhibit itself to the Republican party and he would prove his incapacity for leadership. He is the Charlie Chaplin of local politics.

For two hours he poured forth the pent-up venom of years, a venom which he carefully guarded when he sought the Portsmouth post office at any hands, and a venom he guarded while he laid up a fortune from the office he held.

His attitude as to Judge Osborn's candidacy is thoroughly typical of the man. He packed his own office with Kaps men, invited in five of the Judge's friends and then took a vote as to whether the organization would support Osborn or Kaps. Of course the majority of the brethren voted for Kaps and then Charlie made them one of his Sunday school talks. Rubbing his hands together, I am afraid of a man who has that habit, he said that Osborn was his personal choice and his first choice for mayor, and that, if elected, he would make a better official than Kaps, but that he believed in real organization and would follow the crowd and support Kaps. He is the Pontius Pilate of the campaign. Finding no fault with the Judge he abandons him to his fate. And he lived during the times of Pontius Pilate he would have joined the mob as its leader if he believed it was in the major.

Exposes Plot of "Board of Trustees"

He tried to set up the same deal on us. He and a few others conceived the idea of a board of trustees for the Republican party and they called a meeting at my office. They issued the invitations and when the chosen few gathered we soon sized it up as pucked. We presumed that a representative gathering of Republicans would attend such a meeting, but it proved to be a gathering of office holders and those expecting office. My friends had about as much show in that crowd as a Republican in Mississippi. It was a set up job to turn the state patronage over to Hard and Eckhart. Well, the receiver-ship plan for the party was proposed and after persistent questioning it developed that these "three tailors of London" were to select the receivers for all the Republicans of this city and then go out and tell the various candidates for mayor to take to the tall timber. They were told that they had no commission from the people to install a dictatorship over the city.

The wisdom of letting the people choose their own candidate for mayor was suggested. This suggestion did not meet with a friendly reception and right there I guess I lost the friendship and admiration of Doc Young. That is all there is to that story. Charlie is venomous because he didn't pull the game off on us that he worked on Osborn's friends. Such is his knowledge.

Wants To Know About Letters
His true character is best evidenced by what he said about McElhenny. He said that Scio county offered two jokes for congress last fall, that McElhenny was the biggest and he supported him. What a confession of weakness and servility! I'll tell you how he supported McElhenny. He wrote letters all over this District saying that McElhenny was a young man of unusual ability and popularity; that he was a self-made young man and came up from the ranks of labor and would prove a credit to the District. Now, when did Charlie tell the truth when he wrote those letters or when he made that speech? He can't help it. He is just built that way. He is so little he actually believes such methods are manly and represent Republican principles. He isn't even straight politically with himself.

First to think own self true Then it will follow, as the night the day

"Then he injected the wet and dry issue into his speech. He said he and Pearl Selby were elected and will give you good appointments under me."

"I understand that there is a man driving a laundry wagon, who will not mention his name, who is for one of the candidates, who has been promised the position of fire chief. I will go into office with no pre-election promises and will be in position to be a man."

"In past years the grand old party was torn asunder by the same tactics that the other factions are now using. They call Nate a kicker; that I was once a Democrat. I never voted the Democratic ticket in my life except for a few personal friends. I don't like machine politics. I am doing what I can for humanity. They are trying to make a slave out of the voters at the ballot box."

Mr. Gilliland then went on to tell how the local Republicans securing a glorious victory in the state election went on to arrange for harmony.

Says He Was For Harmony
"They wanted to know if I would get together with them. I said I had never been apart. They asked me if I would go down and make speeches for them. I did, going out all through the country, staying away from home and working as hard for the Republican party as I am tonight. We re-elected the whole Republican ticket. We again placed the old Republican ship into the sea with the rudder patting up. They proposed the same thing this spring. I got my announcement in for my own early. There were four others in the field. I saw the old Republican bosses out working again, the same ones who had previously trailed the old glory of the party in the dust. Then they didn't want old Nate. They tried to frame it up how they could defeat me. They had four candidates out there trying to beat me. There was Osborn, Gims, Kaps and McCormick, the latter the young man from Kentucky. Bees commenced buzzing around."

Mr. Gilliland then went on to reiterate what he said in previous campaign addresses about the get together or harmony meeting held in Charles E. Hard's office. He told of how there were a few representatives of Mr. Osborn there, a couple of McCormick supporters with a balance of the men Kaps men. He told how Will Sellards, Willard Gustin and John Eckhart were a committee of three appointed to select fifty men who were to select a man for the mayoralty nomination.

"Just think of fifty men selecting for the entire city of Portsmouth a candidate that was to be nominated," he exclaimed. He told how they imposed upon "poor Mark Crawford, Judge Holcomb, Charles McCormick and Willard Gustin" and how they "left the meeting in a huff."

"Of course Kaps was the man chosen because thirty-five of the fifty men were Kaps men," added Mr. Gilliland.

Mr. Gilliland went on to state Mr. Eckhart's political activity. He stated: "Mr. Eckhart started out as a broom maker, then, he was a Republican committeeman. He served two terms as infirmity director, one term as deputy sheriff and two terms as sheriff. Not content with that he got Brother Sampson Eckhart a job as county auditor. Does he want the whole Eckhart family in office? Now I understand John has been promised chief of police if Kaps is elected."

Claims Bannon Stole His Speech
Mr. Gilliland in reverting back to his last fall's campaign told of being out with Bannon, how Mr. Bannon would not let him speak first and when Bannon spoke how he stole part of his speech. Mr. Gilliland continued to emphasize the fact that the present fight was one between Messrs. Hard and Bannon for political supremacy and to settle a personal grudge. He stated that if McCormick gets into office Bannon will have his collar around him while if Kaps gets into office Hard will have a collar around him. He stated that Wells A. Hutchins and Pearl E. Selby would have a collar around Mr. Osborn if he is elected.

WE HAVE A GRIEVANCE.

We have a deep and everlasting grudge against the fair city of Marion, Ohio, and inasmuch as we never expect to get any office through the grace of Senator Harding, we feel perfectly free and open about expressing our opinion of his town. We have been in a good many places, but Marion is the only place that we know of in which a perfectly well behaved automobile can lose itself in the mud in a street within the corporation limits.

They are building a road up there like they are in most other places in Ohio and so we trailed around a side street to get back onto the main road leading out of town. All at once we landed in a quagmire that apparently had no bottom and the next moment our party were explosively gazing at each other while the wheels of the auto spun around like the fly wheel on a sewing machine.

A small boy who was sitting on a pile of rocks by the banks of the marsh volunteered to throw his rocks under the wheels for a dime, a proposition which was promptly accepted. He was a most capable and ingenious youngster and some day he ought to be a Rockefeller for he confided to us that he had made it a business of gathering rocks and waiting to help autoists when they got stuck in that particular hole. Marion ought to be proud of that boy if she hasn't anything else outside of her senator to be proud of.

But we were in too deep for mere rocks to get us out of distress and so the S. O. S. signal went out to a farmer who hitherto with his team and gave us the edge on our particular hole that enabled us to navigate the remainder of Marion's fair street. Our teamster friend is evidently not up on automobile prices though. A man who will march a perfectly good team of horses into the unknown depths of a back street in Marion and pull an automobile to shore ought to have more wisdom than to only ask a dollar for his services. The union of automobile haulers will certainly do something to him if they ever hear of his cut rate. We may say however that the official treasurer of our party, after recovering from the shock, did the best he could for the savior of the situation.

But Marion—no more for us. Bridges out to the south of her, mud roads to the east of her, disappearing back streets to the north of her. Who would find admiration in his heart for a town in such a deuce of a fix?

BRICK ROADS THE THING.

The experience of the last few years, in which the character of traffic on the public highways has changed so remarkably and so rapidly, proves that brick is the best paving material now known for country roads. Brick roads cost more to build than macadam or concrete, but they last so much longer that they must be cheaper in a term of years. A brick road surface, properly laid at the right season of the year, requires almost no attention and is practically indestructible.

Macadam, on the other hand, has proved its unsuitability for present-day traffic. Some of the fine macadam roads in this county, built only two or three years ago, are worn out already. They must be worked on almost all the time to keep them free from holes and ruts. They simply cannot stand up under the strain put upon them by automobiles. Concrete as a country-road pavement is still more or less in the experimental stage. It is cheaper than brick but it does not seem able to withstand the freezing and thawing of spring and fall and a cracked and seamed concrete road is a miserable thing and a dangerous thing. In the light of present knowledge, brick is by all odds the most satisfactory paving material for country roads.

Our county commissioners have done nobly in their work of road improvement. Franklin County's roads now are nothing to be ashamed of; they are almost uniformly good, in fact, but the only way they are kept so is by almost constant repairs. If they had been surfaced with brick, instead of macadam, they would give much better service, last much longer and probably cost much less in the end. The commissioners will do well now to give up macadam and go over to brick, as new road construction becomes necessary. We hope within a few years to see every main Franklin county road paved with brick to the county line.—Ohio State Journal.

It may be of interest to our brethren of the Scioto County Anti-Saloon League to know that they were considered very progressive and up-to-date, in fact highly approved of by a few score of editors at the recent gathering of the clans up at Cedar Point on account of their "Moral, vote Ohio dry" advertising stunt. Each editor present went home strong in the determination to point out to his own anti-saloon league the urgent necessity of going and doing likewise right away quick, same rate, same price as quoted by this excellent newspaper.

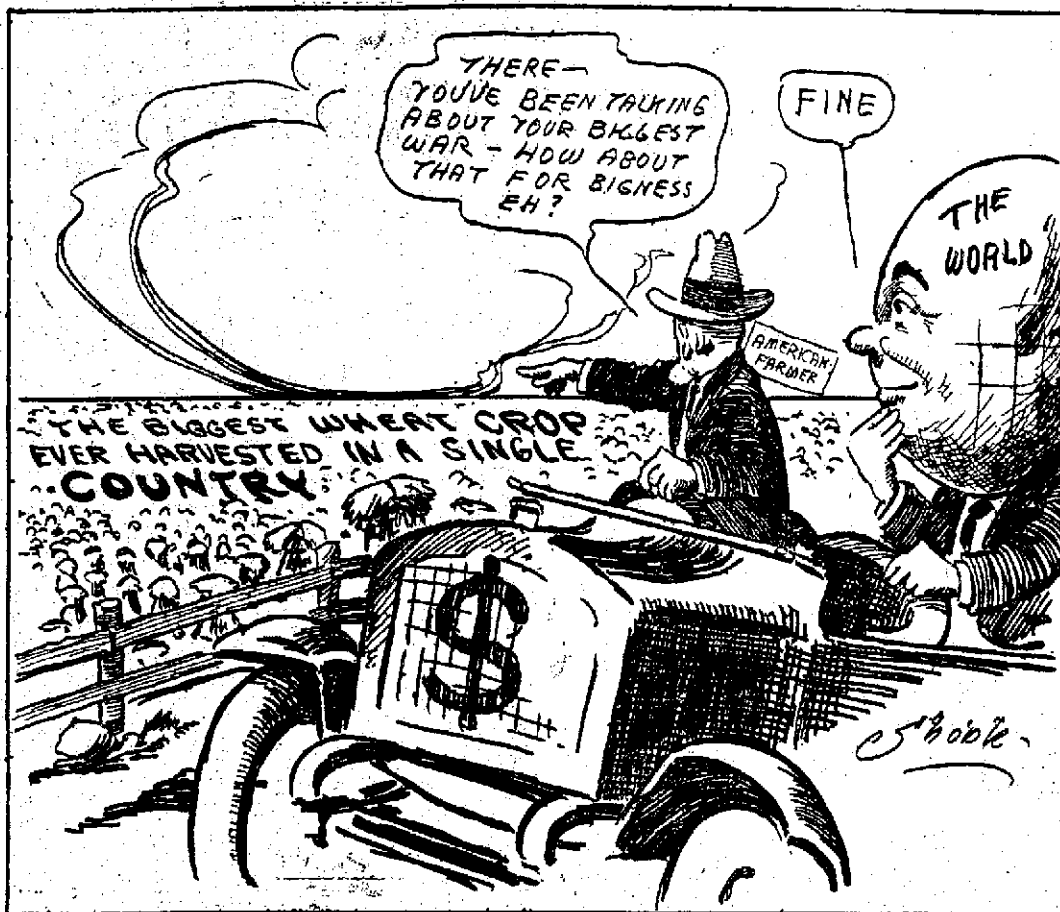

We believe the faith of some people would be materially strengthened if they would omit in their supplications all appeals for the Lord to chop their wood and fetch their water for them.—Houston Post.

The Bug River is Boog. What would they call a gnat in Poland?—Toledo Blade.

One of the finest examples of self-denial we ever heard of was John Eckhart declining to be further considered for an office he never had a chance of getting. It almost takes our breath away.

SHOWING HIM SOMETHING WORTH WHILE.

IT MEANS SOMETHING.

When you are a member of a church up at Catlettsburg, Kentucky, it means that you have to practice yourself what you either actively or impliedly preach to other people. If you do not they put you out of the church. Thus the Presbyterians of Catlettsburg have notified two deacons and two elders that their votes and their activity in the cause of the Wets in a recent county option election were in violation of their church doctrine, that they must apologize publicly or face charges and be expelled. The men are going to stand trial. The Baptist church in the same town has dropped some of its leading members for the same cause while the most active member of the First M. E. church South has been dropped from the church rolls. And why should not this be true? Members of a church who fail to live up to their obligations are a reproach to christianity and to their special denomination, a by-word for every seer to exclaim "Look at so-and-so, I am as good as he, if not better because he says one thing and does another." We believe in people being what they are, straight out all the way through. And that holds good in religion as well as in business.

The Huntington-Herald-Dispatch is another example that bad habits are catching. Here it's editor has been reading those loyalty protestations of local Republican leaders and now the Herald-Dispatch says that Governor Hatfield is unfit temperamentally and in every other way to be senator from West Virginia but still if he is nominated over its protest it will support him to the limit.

We rather inferred from the remarks of Brother Hard the other evening that he did not have a very high opinion of the capacity, ability and general usefulness to society of those eminent statesmen and fellow Republicans the Hon. Roy McElhenny, Hon. George A. Ditty and Hon. George Keller. But then, of course, we may have misunderstood Mr. Hard.

The only thing we cannot understand about this Republican ruction now drawing to a close is why no bricks have been thrown at the only and really and truly original Willis man who deserted the glorious cause and took himself, bag and baggage over to the Kaps cohorts. Young Doe where hast thou been?

Billy Gies was punished for his audacity in being a candidate for mayor. The other fellows took their meeting right to his front door and made him listen to their oratory whether he would or not. Still, we think it was rubbing it in just a little to drag him out and make him talk at what was intended to be his own funeral.

We suppose that some of those pisen Republican editors will now rise up and say that Woodrow Wilson had nothing to do with that Billion bushel wheat crop and try to give all the credit to the Lord.

The good old days of the Republican party are here. Its candidates have revived the charming custom of making the rounds of the saloons and setting 'em up to the boys who love to booze when others buy. Fine custom. It makes so many votes.

We rather gathered from Mayor Frick's statement issued Tuesday that he seems to be of the opinion that he will not succeed himself at the November election. But then maybe the mayor was just kidding the boys along into fighting a little harder for the Republican nomination.

OLD NEW YORK

Sketches of Little
by C. H. Book

New York, August 10.—Manhattan is throwing off the shackles of ridiculous conventions and senseless fashions. The male inhabitants of this congested island are scattering woollens and flannels, stiff collars and shirt bosoms to the four winds and no more will the feet be encased in hot, unventilated leather in hot weather.

The new sport shirts, with low, comfortable collars, sleeves that can be unbuttoned at the elbow and removed during work or play and tails that may be converted into drawers were the first step in dress reform and Broadway took to it like a hungry dog to a bone.

Now an enterprising shoe concern has come out with a russet sandal shoe which may be the summer shoe of the future. It has a strip of leather from the toe to a strap with a buckle at the ankle and is easy to put on. Many men in New York refuse to wear hats of summer evenings.

A new crop of dancing stars—classics, ballet, Greek and national—are to scintillate in the theatrical firmament next year. Mme. Elizabetha Menzeli, most famous instructor of classic dancing, has just graduated her class and when a dancer receives the endorsement of Mme. Menzeli it means an engagement at once.

She was a former premier danseuse and maitresse de ballet and when she retired from the stage she fitted up one of the finest dancing conservatories in town at 22 East 16th street and it is here that she teaches flustering toes to become nimble. One of her pupils is Ethel Gilmore, known as the successor to Genee and who has been premier danseuse of the Canadian Grand Opera Company under Max Rabindorf, manager of Pavlova.

Mme. Menzeli has for years taught the leading artists and society leaders in New York and Newport and in her summer Normal Classes dancing teachers from all over the country are instructed in the art of Terpsichore. She is the author and composer of a number of operettas and dance poems and her studio is a rendezvous for the artistic life of the city.

The Bug Season is on in all its pristine fury. Tiring of arguing the war, the boys who shoot the bull around the bulletin boards are now waging the New York Giants will have a new manager next year.

There was a fine young wedding up at Sing Sing the other day. In a lover of bolts and bars a man, who has a most excellent record as a thief, burglar and was united in holy wedlock.

Peter Cullen was the bridegroom and his blushing bride was Julia Sullivan. They were married in the Warden's office—but the honeymoon trip will be postponed indefinitely. It seems that Cullen cannot get away.

Following in the illustrious footsteps of Jess Willard, Battling Nelson has also become an author and all he lacks is a pair of tortoise rimmed glasses. He says he can drink tea, if his stomach is right, and talk blabla.

After The Battler had finished his book, he sent a copy to Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago schools. He says she once gave him a lecture which he never forgot and which made him what he is today. He also received a letter from Mrs. Young thanking him.

And this is the explanation made of how "Ring Battles of Centuries" found its way to a shelf in Mrs. Young's library between Mme. Montessori's "Kindergarten Methods" and a set of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

The most pathetically true remark made ament this campaign was that of the much bedeviled Star when it said that it was glad the end was near. Any man who has ever run a paper in the midst of a party primary fight such as closed with the Republicans today, knows that remark came from the heart.

"The Ladies"
(With apologies to Kipling)
I've taken my fun where I've found it,
I've loved and I've lost in my time,
I've had my pick of sweethearts,
And four of the lot were prime.

One was a rone Baron,
One was a handsome Prof;
One was a college student,
And one was a London Toif.

I was a youngster in Paris,
Shy as a kid to begin,
Baron de Jamis, he made me
Ah! Jamis was clever as sin.

Younger than I, but my first one,
Connoisseur, clever and grim,
He showed me the way to turn right into day,
And I learned of man's weakness from him.

Then, I went over to Berlin
To lead a respectable life;
I got me a handsome professor,
Thro being a friend of his wife.
She went away weak and sickly,
Our joy cup o'er flowed to the brim.

For we lived on the square like a true married pair,
And I learned of man's weakness from him.

Next, was Mae Farquar of London;
Commonly known as "Bad Mae".

I flirted with him for amusement
And found that I couldn't turn back.

Vulgar and lowly, but faithful,
His memory will never grow dim;
But I most died from fright when he beat me, one night,
And I learned of man's weakness from him.

Then I came home on a steamer,
Long with a lad of nineteen,
Handsome and straight and clean minded.

The finest I ever had seen,
Love at first sight was his weakness,
He called my hand sylph-like and slim.

And I wouldn't do such 'cause I liked him too much,
Still, I learned of man's weakness from him.

I've taken my fun where I found it,
And now I must pay for my fun,
For the more you know of the many,
The less you will settle to one,
And the end of it—sitting and thinking.

Of days I am laid on the shelf,
So be warned by my lot
Which I know you will not;
You must learn about men for yourself.

What did the Colonel's lady think
Nobody ever knew.
Somebody "axed" the sergeant's wife

And she told 'em true
With a rag and a bone and a hank of hair,
They're as like as a row of pins
For Sir Oliver J and the tramp
by-the-way
Are brothers under the skin.

M'ELHANEY AND HARD IN SCRAP; ROY'S FACE SLAPPED

The bitter feeling that has been engendered among the leaders of the Republican factions during the primary campaign that closed today came to the surface Monday evening, when Roy McElhaney, one of the McCormick leaders, and Charles E. Hard, prominent Kaps supporter, "clashed" at the corner of Fourth and Chillicothe streets.

Before McElhaney had a chance to carry out his alleged attempt to force Hard to apologize he was staggered by a blow in the face, delivered by Pete Yeager, another ardent Kaps supporter, and assistant service director during the Tynes administration.

Hard, Sam Harper and Pete Yeager were standing in front of the old opera house building at Fourth and Chillicothe streets, having just come from the Keystone Press on Fourth street.

According to Mr. Hard, while they were standing there, an automobile drove up in front of Win Nye's drug store across the street. McElhaney jumped out of the machine, and ran over to where the trio were standing. Hard's back was turned toward him when he came. McElhaney grabbed Hard by the shoulders and turned him completely around, the force of his effort knocking Hard's glasses off his nose.

Hard says that without his glasses that he was unable to recognize who it was attacked him, but he heard some one demanding an apology from him whom he afterward recognized as McElhaney.

Mr. Hard says McElhaney continued: "Unless you apologize

I'll—" at the same time starting toward him. Before he could finish his sentence, a mighty wallop was landed on McElhaney's jaw, Yeager's hand shooting forth and staggering McElhaney. He was several seconds picking himself together, according to some.

When he recovered, he walked away and joined his party of friends, who had gone into the Keystone Press, and the incident was closed.

News of the clash between two of the foremost Republican politicians in the city spread rapidly over the city, and caused great excitement in the respective camps.

It is presumed that McElhaney took exception to Hard's remarks about him at Kendall's hall last Friday evening, which led him to make a warm reply in the North End last evening. It was soon after that meeting that the clash occurred.

ATHLETIC SHOW TONIGHT; RETURNS AT THE RINGSIDE

The three wrestling matches will be staged by Ace Henderson versus Roy Bellamy; Edward Stanley versus Frank Smith; "Kid" Burris versus "Kid" Buckles.

The sparring matches will be taken care of by Charles Squires versus "Kid" Aeton; Edward Martin versus George Miller.

Anthony Smith, "Duck" Roberts, McKinley Hurd, R. Kinsey and Bert Johnson are the colored men who will participate in the battle royal.

Death about one thirty o'clock Tuesday morning claimed William R. Bushaw, a well known East End druggist, after only a week's illness. Heart failure is attributed as the cause of the death. Mr. Bushaw suffering a total collapse early this morning after appearing much better and considerably brighter all day Monday and in the evening.

News of the death plunged the East End into deep sorrow as Mr. Bushaw was well known and had a wide circle of friends. Only a week's illness which kept him at his home preceded his death. Mr. Bushaw for a number of years has conducted a drug store at the corner of Eleventh and Clay streets.

TO THE UNION MEN OF PORTSMOUTH:

The vicious and unwarranted attack of Charles E. Hard, chairman of the Kaps committee, upon representative workingmen in his speech at Kendall's Hall should be rebuked at the polls. He not only disapproved the appointment of George A. Ditty, who was indorsed by the Central Labor Council, but scornfully said he hoped he never would return to Portsmouth. He attacked another man who was always affiliated with us and who by his efforts rose to a place of trust.

Hard is backing Kaps, who was the president of the Contractors Association and affiliated with the Plumbers' Association which is trying to break up all the Unions. Kaps is owned and controlled by Hard.

We therefore call upon voters who are in sympathy with labor to vote against Bert Kaps, who wears the collar of Chas. Hard.

Gilliland Closes Campaign; Claims A Part Of His Speech Was Stolen By Harry Bannon

In closing his campaign for nomination for mayor on the Republican ticket, Attorney N. B. Gilliland spoke to a splendid audience at the corner of Twelfth and Railroad streets Monday night. Shortly after he opened his address a band playing lively airs for the purpose of attracting a crowd to the McCormick meeting a half square west interrupted his address. When several men started to leave Mr. Gilliland shouted: "They've got money to hire a band but I haven't. I am the poor man's champion. If you want to go with the men who got the money, down there is the place to go."

Before the meeting Will Haddison with megaphone appealed to men going toward the site of the McCormick meeting to "come, hear a Republican address and hear the next mayor of Portsmouth."

Conspicuous in the crowd and passing campaign literature was "Happy" Baisden who was shouting that "despite previous condition of servitude" he was to be the next justice of the peace on the Democratic ticket.

In opening his address Mr. Gilliland stated that he was championing the labor cause and that he was a friend of the poor man and laboring man; that he thought that man was placed on earth for something besides pursuit of the Almighty dollar and that he was seeking the office of mayor not merely for the office alone but to better the conditions of the poor man and give him a voice in the city government.

"I am not asking that the silk stocking brigade support me. I did and was elected they would want to hold me under their thumbs. I am out here tonight to take the ball right off the bat with my bare hands," said Mr. Gilliland.

Holding in his hands a copy of a political advertisement published in Monday night's issue of the Times Mr. Gilliland stated that he thought that it was an outrage for them to rebuke poor little Charlie Hard because he wanted to be a political boss.

"Kaps is owned and controlled by Hard—but nobody owns me. I don't know what the ad is right although I am not sure who wrote it but I suppose Bannon did. Some people are always deceptive and are always out trying to get votes. I will not deceive in my efforts to get votes," said Mr. Gilliland.

Standing On His Own Platform

Mr. Gilliland stated that he was out on a square platform and thought he was responsible to the American people to make his principle clear and in the open. Further continuing his comment on the ad Mr. Gilliland said that it was in some respects a remarkable statement and a remarkable charge.

"The advertisement states that Mr. Hard is behind Kaps, but who is behind McCormick? Mr. Bannon is. Mr. Bannon in trying to get the votes poses as a friend of the people but when he gets into court he is in favor of the corporations, especially the railroads, said the speaker.

Mr. Gilliland stated that he could not say a word against the other candidates as men.

"But for political power they are fighting like cats and dogs. Their backers after they get into office will not care what becomes of the laboring man. All they

White Man Is Beaten And Robbed By Negro Highwayman

J. M. Smith, white, a concrete worker, was badly beaten up by a negro highwayman and robbed of all his money, amounting to $30, on the N. & W. tracks near Twelfth and Gay streets, late Monday night.

John Washington, alias "Tenderfoot," a Southern negro, was arrested soon after the hold-up occurred, it marking his third time in the custody of the local police as a robber suspect in the past fortnight. Ollie Saunders, a Gallipolis negro, employed with Rinehart & Dennis, railroad contractors near Saintsville, was locked up by Officer Callahan Smith Tuesday morning, as Washington's accomplice.

Police did not learn how Smith got tied up with the negroes, but residents of Gay street heard him trying to release himself from the grasp of a negro, who was holding him by the arm and leading him out the railroad. "Turn me loose!" said Smith repeatedly, but the negro refused declaring he must go up an alley. Smith continued his struggle and finally the negro began slugging him.

Saunders was identified by Mrs. Charles Stahl and Mrs. Arthur Orenshaw, Tuesday morning, as the fellow they saw running through the former's yard. Smith's empty pocket-book was also found in the Stahl yard shortly after the robbery.

According to Saunders, who denied any hand in the robbery, he had met Washington at the Twentieth Century saloon in the evening. Washington told him police had ordered him out of town and for that reason he was sticking close to the saloon until later in the night. He asked Saunders to pass a coat for him down town, but instead of passing it, Saunders said it for him. Washington then told him he was going to arrange for a "skin game" later in the night. He said he was about midnight when they reached the vicinity of Twelfth and Gay streets and he himself, told Washington that he was going home. Washington had the white man by the arm and was leading other negroes to drinks. Washington and relieved him of the balance of his money, but the foreigner exonerated him the following day.

was found near the scene of the holding.

Washington also denied robbing Smith and claimed that he, himself, had been attacked and exhibited a cut on his face, but police believe he did this himself by pinching a pimple.

Washington was fined $25 and cast and sentenced to 30 days in the Cincinnati workhouse last Wednesday for alleged robbing Charles Fursten, a strange negro, of $15, in front of the Dan Fawcett home on Eleventh street, Tuesday night, but because of a loathsome disease with which he is afflicted, police officials knew he would not be accepted as a prisoner at the Cincinnati institution and ordered him out of the city. A few days before the Fursten robbery, Washington was arrested on complaint of a foreigner who reported that after he had spent considerable time trouting him and other negroes to drinks, Washington had relieved him of the balance of his money, but the foreigner exonerated him the following day.
